Full Version. Flybe fall from grace Following its heavy losses in passenger traffic in 2008 and 2009, the airline has seen its fortunes fade in recent times with passenger numbers falling by over 20% in the first six months of this year. The airline's financial woes have increased following the Government's economic 'turmoil', as well as the ongoing economic crisis which the airline has been struggling to deal with. The Irish airline is further hampered by transport links to and from the island, with the absence of a direct flight to the UK and the main European destinations.
Consequently, the airline was unable to fulfil its required sales target of 20% of passenger seats to the Scandinavian, Baltic, and the Nordic route which have now been lost. The airline has been losing more and more money every quarter, in recent times seeing a loss of over €60
