Archpriest Advanced Archive Password Recovery Keygen Free Download "The Ultimate Password Recovery ". Q: Why does GPX track use lat and lon instead of longitude and latitude? I'm trying to convert a GPX file to KML. It worked fine until I had to use longitude and latitude. That part of the GPX file is set to track points, but they have a latitude and longitude. The KML file exports fine, but GPX tracks points that are like 1000 miles apart (2 lines are 1 mile apart). It's because of the lat and lon values. I assume the GPX file is like: 01.0,02.0 blah blah 01.0000000 2018-11-13T09:47:54Z 01.0000000 2018-11-13T09:47:58Z So I'm trying to figure out if there's a way to tell it to use long and lat like normal latitude and longitude values. 3da54e8ca3
