ATK Releases Roadmap for Future Growth with an Eye on Earnings N/A ATK listed its growth strategy for the year ahead on January 25, 2012 and it is clear that the emphasis will be on earnings. Consider the fact that in the fiscal year that ends on the 30th, ATK is expected to earn about $500 million, and the new strategy emphasizes five growth initiatives. This includes expanding overseas operations to India, the Middle East, and Eastern Europe, selling its self-healing concrete, and marketing a composite steel pipe. The strategy consists of a dozen initiatives in six to eight areas and is categorized into the four phases mentioned above. Each initiative is described by the criteria upon which the plan is based, the projected results, and the plan's timeline. Once the objectives are determined, costs, implementation plans, and market research are identified. The first three phases of the plan deal with getting ready for growth. This includes establishing a new research and development (R&D) center that will be near Chennai, India; increasing R&D expense by about $8 million; and increasing ATK's self-healing concrete investment costs by $10 million. Phase I also includes initiatives to increase demand for stainless steel and deliver these products globally. Phase I is expected to be completed by the first quarter of 2012. The third phase is designed to make ATK a more attractive investment and to increase its net income. This includes growing its in-house division, expanding on productivity and reduction of costs. It is also expected to increase research productivity and reduce overhead in the next 18 months. In the fourth phase, ATK will focus on increasing its international presence. This is believed to result in $110 million in new revenue over the next two years. In May, the company is planning to open an office in Cyprus. Selling composite steel pipe is also in Phase IV. It is believed to be the most significant new initiative, and ATK projects that it will generate $150 million in new revenue in the next two years. Phase V of the strategy addresses innovation and growth. It consists of new R&D projects and establishing a new customer relations team.Q: How can I read a PDF in VB.NET and retrieve text strings? I'm having a hard time getting some text strings out of a PDF file on a Windows Server 648931e174
