Pick your side - Richard III, Henry Tudor or the chaotic fighting between them! Once you've chosen your faction, start in the year 1485. You have to choose your faction: York, Lancaster, the Archbishop, the People... Relations with your neighbors are crucial. The events of your game take place in the weeks leading up to a decisive battle that will change history forever. Depending on which nation you start with, your game will be as short or as long as you want it to be. Vassals and neighbors will help or hinder you as the year unfolds. Your decisions can be short-term, helping your king to grow, or long-term, benefiting your fortune. With the summer in Britain fast approaching, it's time to make the decision to pick one of the many rival factions for your game. Make the most of each turn in your game. It's time to play! Bosworth 1485 is a real time strategy game, with the focus on the politics and diplomacy of the 15th century. In addition to the long term, the game features a sandbox mode in the form of the War Room. At the end of each turn, players are asked to make a decision and it is the War Room that chooses the course of history for the British isles. Game Features (Controls): Choose to be Richard III of York, Henry Tudor of the Lancaster family, or try to mix the two and become the leader of England... Build your nation with a library that will make your vassals and neighbors grateful... At the start of your game, the year is 1485. Reignite the age old fire in the War of the Roses: try to seize power from your rival and become King of England... Solve puzzles, acquire allies, borrow money, recruit people, forge alliances and sell your favor to get the best deals... Choose your allies: party with the Archbishop, or the Pope!... Engage in friendly or hostile relations with your neighbors to build the best alliances... Be careful: some of your closest vassals will never trust you when you become King!... Make your own history with the War Room, the game's sandbox mode, offering thousands of possible actions!... Alliances and Policies: Deregulation Policies Trade Freedom Money Regulator Professionalism Military Prestige Respect Faith

This is a spaceship shooter where you are the only one to survive between the invader's planet and earth. You have 9 levels to master. The first 8 levels will feature 8 bosses and the last level will feature a giant alien monster. In the game, you must use a bunch of weapons to kill the intruders and keep earth safe for future generations. You can also play a multiplayer mode over local network connection. But beware of those other alien spaceships, they are out to stop you.How to Play: The controls are simple. You will use mouse to aim and left click to fire. You will also have a small ship that will help you navigate the asteroids. After completing level 1, you can then unlock a small life-boat where you can escape the dangerous asteroids by shooting them away. Keep the asteroids at bay by shooting them away!Play this game online at hermes.ro!Q: vector of object pointers and loading mapfile using boost I have a case where i want to load a bunch of vec3's to a vector of objects from a map file. I know how to use boost CMap to read the map file and load the data but not sure how to create the vector of objects with the loaded data. I have created a struct to hold the data. Anyone want to give me a code example? // map_container struct to hold geometry data struct coord_t { int X; int Y; int Z; }; struct grid_t { coord_t x_min; coord_t x_max; coord_t y_min; coord_t y_max; }; struct point_t { std::vector coords; }; vector points; struct entity_t { // this struct is for the map file data std::string id; grid_t bounds; grid_t map_grid_bounds; std::list entities; // This is for my calculation/modeling using the map file data int max_distance_from_grid; int x_val

What's new in No Turning Back - Skill Upgrade - Stamina Regeneration:

, INC.. 21.7k SHARES Facebook Twitter Whatsapp Pinterest Reddit Print Mail Flipboard Advertisements Trump Chief Strategist Steve Bannon was quoted in Rolling Stone interview as saying that the Republican Party had been hijacked by wealthy businessmen and an “egomania” society. Bannon said the real problem was that populists were no longer welcome in the Republican Party, and added that other pro-business senators and business leaders were having a bigger impact in the Republican Party than outsiders. “I think we’re at a critical mass,” he said. “You can see in the Republican Party that there are two parties: there’s the power structure that’s in there and there’s a populism that’s in there. If you’re not part of that power structure, your views get marginalized, you don’t have a seat at the table. “Even if you’re elected senator or house rep, if you’re not in the clubs or you’re not part of the egomaniac party, it’s difficult to do your job.” You can read the rest in the Rolling Stone article. Bannon added that Donald Trump is a symptom, and not a cause of what is happening in the Republican Party. Breitbart doesn’t want outsiders, it wants Bannon-types as operatives, who are called “token minorities” and “fringe characters” by the publication. Advertisements “I mean, that guy’s being helpful,” said Bannon. “Trump is a symptom.” In a poll that it commissioned, Breitbart said it had found that more people now think that the Republican Party is “Extremely likely to shift right,” than “Extremely likely to shift left.” After Trump declared victory in the November election, Breitbart was quick to support an ‘America First’ policy (this didn’t do well). Then, Trump appointed Steve Bannon, a Breitbart, as the RNC chief strategist, and later, Trump picked Rep. Mark Meadows, (R-NC), and Bannon to his administration. Meadows is not a “populist” by any stretch of the imagination. He is known as an expert on tax policy, and he is a tea partier. Other Republicans that
