Gail answers to two questions in 3D, using the controller - axis: 1. Who was the president of the United States of America in 1975? 2. Who was the president of the United States of America in 1989? 4 answers: You can answer only in one way. 1/4 times you win 1 doll.If you don't answer the question in time the girl will stop in her turn, and you need to begin again.If you answer with another girl then you will get 4 answers. But you get only 3! Once you have solved the question, you need to provide 3 answers. After the 3 answers you can go on to play another round. It's not a very big game, but if you want to win more than two girls with it, then you can wait for time. You have to wait to gain more questions, which you will get after each 15 questions. Girls and Quiz - is a simple and short game, where you need to answer to the questions. Depends of your answers you can get each girl.Gameplay Girls and Quiz: 1. Name the American presidents, beginning with the presidential term in office that took the longest time to complete. 1 - 2 - 3 - 4 - 5 - 6 - 7 - 8 - 9 - 10 - 11 - 12 - 13 - 14 - 15 - 16 - 17 - 18 - 19 - 20 - If you answer incorrectly, she will stop. If you answer correctly, you will gain two more times. If you get 3 or more answers correctly, the girl will move. Your game begins. You will be given 15 questions. Answer correctly and you will get to play again. If you do not answer the question correctly, or the round has finished, the game is over. And the doll that you got when you last played will be given to the next person to play. You can play until you get 3 or more answers correct. 2. What is the highest skyscraper in the United States? 1 - 2 - 3 - 4 - 5 - 6 - 7 - 8 - 9 - 10 - 11 - 12 - 13 - 14 - 15 - 16 - 17 - 18 - 19 - 20 - 21 - 22 - 23 - 24 - 25 - You are given only one more time to answer correctly. If you get 3 or more answers correct, the girl will go to the next question. Your

: The Greater Toronto Area Toronto, Ontario, Canada HOW DO THESE CITIES COMPETE AND HOW CAN THEY CHANGE? On both sides of the border, consider a comparison of the two regions in the U.S. and Canada. Perhaps unsurprisingly, population rankings appear somewhat similar. However, when you look into the details, it is not at all as easy to say that Toronto is more successful than Vancouver. In fact, Canada's largest city draws more commuters, and attracts individuals through a wide array of quality of life amenities. Gathering with people you actually care about is more fun to the Canadian populous. Maybe that is why Canadians consume more leisure time and possess more of a social heart. As a manufacturing and transportation hub, there is not much question about Toronto becoming a global crossroads. On the other hand, Vancouver truly is a city of new homes and innovative communities. So if you want to buy a place in Calgary, Alberta, Canada, you will be drawn to its draw of living in a wonderful area. While you cannot change the natural environment of either city, there are distinct ways you can forge your urban environment at the same time. Luckily for builders, the growth in cities is very exciting. Expanding properties are offering your clients a notable change in lifestyle options. The 20 cities we delve into are perfect examples of how your experts and clients want to live. It is important to note that, although we are focusing on these regions and their growth, we know that cities are continuously evolving. What we are offering in our Greater Toronto Area resource includes outstripping greenfield urbanization, urban growth boundaries, designated mixed-used zones, intensification of metropolitan regions, and more!

1. Toronto Population: 6,281,223
Based on the 2011 census, Toronto was Canada's most populous municipal area. The city proper has also expanded in recent years and appears to be growing at a rate of more than 2 percent annually. A Toronto Real Estate Board (TREB) report came out showing that 46.1 percent of Torontonians have already moved to other cities or move to cities in the following five years. Despite this, however, there will still be a great demographic shift in the coming years. Given the new homes and condos that are popping up across its extensive cityscape, many are predicting that Toronto will maintain its top spot among North

Find all the players with your mobile devices in VR and award the most points. In each level the mouse player will become the cat. In short: the cat will have a short time to find the mouse(s) and he or she will gain points by doing so. The cat will win when he or she leaves the mouse in a position in which the mouse can find him or her. The more mice the cat has left behind, the more points he or she will get. Gameplay: Find the mouse(s) by listening to the spatialized sounds in the room. Use your mobile device's camera to look at the space and find the mouse(s). A Timer will automatically start counting down when you move into play mode. After 3 seconds your mouse will appear as a cat. You will have a short time to find the mouse(s). When you find all the mice, you will find the cat. There are 8 levels with 5 hiding places per level. You will play with 1, 2, 3 or 4 other players in each level. Note: Sound is fully optional. If you do not have any speakers and no other devices are around, the sound can be turned off. Worlds: Portal (2x) Surf Store (2x) The Cave (2x) Pooka's Place (2x) The Thrill (2x) To the Moon (2x) The Haunted House (2x) Alpine Village (2x) Autumn Forest (2x) Winter Camp (2x) Audio: At all times a synth sound is playing and this sound is slightly spatialized to create a sense of presence. Some levels feature a vocal chat between the players. This also helps to create a more realistic experience because it adds to the urge to find the mouse(s). Sound is available on local devices. Social features: You can chat with the other players. You can use your mobile devices to watch your score. A leaderboard with ranking will be available. Leaderboard data will be shown on the leaderboard in the back of the game. Leaderboard: Rank (Color): Points (color): Achievement (color): Level: Date: Text: Current Time: Last time played: Progress: Match: Difficulty Level: Statistics: World:

Scientist Dr. Keith Reum calls it "tertiary woody debris feedback", basing his assertion off of information from researchers such as Dick Bell, Gerrit Haverkort, and Heiko Pechmann. When trees die, and they're surrounded by ground vegetation, they start sending up new shoots. The taller and denser the vegetation around a tree, the faster it grows. This, Reum asserts, leads to a decrease in tall trees, because previous generations of more mature individuals were given a greater push by the new ecosystem. No one except Reum explains the term "tertiary woody debris feedback," nor did the authors on the Research Library project's Web page include any further explanation of the concept beyond their listing. Reum's theory gives a plausible explanation for how secondary disturbance of vegetation by climate change can lead to later disturbances in vegetation by climate change. However, it does not account for how one-time disturbances, such as clear-cutting, can lead to changes in the ecosystem. Moreover, the theory presents no information about the size of the woody debris, or about how woody debris resourced from widely spaced old-growth trees. Because of the inclusion of weak explanations of the phenomenon, and the inclusion of skewed information, rather than research-based information, Reum's theory should be considered inconclusive at best.
