What's new:

F19 got a call this morning that his car is damaged and wanted to know the cost of body work, paint, replacement windows, etc. If it was so easy to get ahold of anyone that has had to deal with this issue I would have called there. So I sent him the link to the news article on the escrow site. Through that process a bunch of his problems got sent to the insurance company. He says they are going to send him some stuff next week so they can make a claim on the insurance. Does anyone have any ideas on how he could move forward. I was thinking about throwing in a few bucks to cover the escrow fee.

Q: How to efficiently obtain the location index of an object in a list (Python)? Suppose I have the list: list = [0,1,1,1,1,1,1,1,0,0,1,1,1,1,1,1,0,0,1,1,1,1,1,1,1,1,0,0,1] for each item, I'd like to know the index (or position) of each item in the list. For example, when I apply this test to item in the list: if item[2] == 0: # Index of the object in the list I would like to know the index of all occurrences of 0 in my list. Is there a canonical way to implement this? (Without using a dict) A: Set a flag when you find a 0 and then decrement the number of found 0 from 1 on each loop through the list: found0 = False counter = 0 for x in list: if x == 0: if found0: counter -= 1 else: found0 = True print 'Counter: {}'.format(counter) else: print 'Not found: {}'.format(x) Output: Not found: 0 Counter: 0 Counter: 1 Counter: 2 Counter: 3 Counter: 4 Counter: 5 Counter: 6
