March of the Eagles is a turn-based tactics simulation in the style of the classics of the genre. In this DLC pack you can expect a huge selection of British infantry, cavalry, artillery and of course the famous British legendary Highlander units! Play German forces for the first time in this DLC and enjoy new variety in your German gameplay!

Q: Unidirectional One to many association I want to setup a unidirectional one to many association between two entities. This seems to be working correctly: However, if I do:

var subject =
_rdo.GetSubjectByID(id); _rdo.AddSubject(subject);
var notification =
_rdo.GetNotificationBySubjectID(subject.SubjectID);
_rdo.AddNotification(notification);

I'm getting this error: It is possible to fix this? What I tried is adding a new notification to the existing notification then deleting it which seems to work, but in my unit tests I end up with the messages in the notification in the temporary database. A: I have 2 suggestions. 1. Your notification entity needs to implement Equals and GetHashCode overrides. 2. Just make sure that as mentioned by tvannfosson in the comments, your notification_subject and subject entities are at least base types of a common base entity. Q: How do I use the iOS 5 share sheet with a custom icon (that isn't a URL)? While the share sheets default icon is just a URL, I've added my own in an IBInspectable property. Now, how do I get the sheet to display my custom icon, rather than the URL specified by the ShareActionKind? A: As suggested by @Kathryn Bigelow, I added an interface to my view controller that implements sharing, and it now uses the custom icon for all sharing types. Q: jQuery popup plugin I'm using the jquery popup plugin, and can't seem to figure out how to implement it in a way that displays a new div or span? The way it is now, when I click the div with the popup in it, the popup hides but you can't see the div. Here is my code:

$(document).ready(function(){

An original and unique story, about the destruction of humanity on the planet Earth, but also about the quest of one human to rebuild his life in the company of others, and his search for the truth - for the ultimate paradise. At the core of the story, an unbelievable thing happens - the global population collapses, leaving behind a vast desolate landscape, destroyed cities, contaminated by radiation. And at the same time, a huge organization called Eden Corp. opens their latest project - the new world of Eden. On this new planet they have brought with them all the inventions of humanity - machines, synthetic creatures, and a complete new society, the predecessors of the next generations. At first, it looks like the whole project has been successful, but a few days later, a sad realisation sets in, that something is wrong - even in a paradise, everything can become a trap and a prison. The dreams of a dying human are like a soul of a caged bird - desperately awaiting the freedom. The story unfolds over nine chapters where the player takes the role of Max, a guy from the underground movement of "Wake Up World", which has its camp in Sector G, Eco Habitat. He sets off, in search for Eden Corp, where he learns the truth. In this episode you will meet 9 locations of the new world of Eden, which will give an extraordinary experience of how the build-up of the new Eden begins. You will discover the secrets of the totalitarian regime, in a matter of the new world, so perfect that it seems almost magical. But everything has a price... You may find more info about Eden Corp at www.edencorp.com. About Jeremy Tisser: A composer and producer for the last 15 years, Jeremy Tisser has composed for numerous games and films. , Argentina Cátedra Marimán Independiente (Argentine School of Physics) or Cátedra Marimán Independiente (Marimán Center), is a top public university located in the south of the Córdoba province in Buenos Aires, Argentina. It is a founding member of the Grupo de Investigación en Ciencia y Tecnología (GICYT), a public institution of knowledge and technological development of the Spanish Ministry of Education, Culture and Sport. It was founded in 1947 as the Pontificio Universidad Católica de Córdoba by the Jesuit missionaries Martín de Porres (Tercero Provincial Santísima Trinidad) and Francisco Moreno (Constituyente) after receiving a donation from the chemist Pablo Marimán Cabot. Cátedra Marimán Independiente is a private university, open to persons of all social classes without tuition fees. Its faculties are the following: Arts, Laws and social sciences, Sciences, Medical sciences and Dentistry, Engineering sciences, Engineering, Electrical Engineering and Computer Science. Besides academic study, the institution offers economy and tourism, health and wellness, education and civic engagement, genealogy, sport, human rights, English as a second language and character and theatrical arts. The school has eleven Departments of Specialization in its fields of study, which confer combined or individual degrees, diplomas, advanced studies, doctoral degrees and -to a lesser degree- master degrees or masters in humanities. The university is divided into two main campuses: the central and the Buenos Aires South campus. The latter is located in the city of Villa Martelli, a neighbourhood at the northeast of the capital's Ñuñoa and Belgrano Sur districts. The other is located in Palermo Sur, in collaboration with other universities. History Cátedra Marimán Independiente was founded on October 19, 1947 by the Jesuit Superior Provincial Néstor Sosa Paróquicas in the city of Córdoba, the capital of the Córdoba Province. He was supported by the chemist Pablo Marimán Cabot, to create the “Ibero-American Center of Chemistry”. In the same period, the directors of the Universidad Católica de Córdoba signed a
