Identity Document: Wearing a Wig, Dressing in Black Slavery is all too real and very rarely is it discussed in our schools. The fact is that throughout all of this year's issues in grade 1 and grade 2, we have really learned to take basic things for granted. Maybe we've been living in a bubble all along? Today, we're talking about wearing a wig, dressing in black, and how important it is to keep our identity statements top secret. In grade 1, the concept of identity document is interesting. We started by discussing how things on our identification (e.g. address) is easy to figure out. Much harder to figure out are things like our hobbies, tastes, likes and dislikes. Teachers really love to have this sort of information because it can be used to see if our values are aligned with school values. It's so important for parents to talk to their children about this topic and it's all too
